OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN

DISCONTENT IN HOME FLEET.

ARE AFFECTED. Resignations and Desertions the Result -Much Bad Feeling Against Admiral

Higginson, Who Commands the Fleet

Navy Department Proposes a Remedy WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- As a result of an investigation into complaints that a condition of affairs prevailed among the officers and enlisted men of the North Atlantic both large stockholders. They averred squadron which threatened to effect their that the Prudential company has no right efficiency, the Navy Department and the General Board of the navy has decided on a policy which, it is hoped, will bring about a marked improvement when the squadron is engaged in the winter fleet manœuvres in conjunction with the vessels of the European and South Atlantic stations.

The Department announced to-day that in view of the hard work which the vessels to engage in the manœuvres would have to undergo, Christmas week would be observed as a holiday. The fleet will be divided and each division will go to some place in the West Indies, where officers and men will be permitted to go ashore for purposes of recreation. It is understood also that Admiral Dewey, who will command the fleet, has decided to devote one day a week during the manœuvres to rest for officers and men.

From what is said in naval circles, however, the causes of the discontent among those on the vessels of the home station are too deep-rooted and of a character too serious to be removed by the mere granting of holiday privileges. Not only are the enlisted men affected, but the officers are also. Some recent resignations and voluntary retirements are attributed to the present situation, thus indicating that the conditions must be very bad indeed when officers are willing to quit the service on

The Navy Department has been told that there is a great deal of bad feeling among his subordinates against Rear Admiral Francis J. Higginson, the squadron commander, and from what was said at the Department to-day, it is evident that some consideration was given to this aspect of the matter. Just what was the outcome of the Department's inquiry has not been disclosed, but that Admiral Higginson will retain his command until his tour of sea duty expires appears to be with the personnel of the North Atlantic naval force, but there is a great deal of gossip among officers who are aware of what has taken place. There seems to be a general agreement that the squadron very unhappy. This unhappiness, it is alleged, is not confined to any one ship, but extends throughout the entire naval force under Admiral Higginson's command. The men, it appears, think they have been robbed of privileges which they had a right to expect, and it is reported that officers complain that they are not treated with consideration, seldom get credit for hard work, and are suffering from the effect of having under them men who have become surly and discontented. It is maintained by the Navy Department that the officers and men have not com-plained of the hard work experienced plained of the hard work experienced during the summer war games off the New England coast, and that it is acknowledged by them that their efficiency has been improved in consequence. This is prohably true, and is even partly acknowledged by those who hold that the squadron is full of dissatisfaction. But it is contended that the efficiency which has come from learning something of war conditions is different from the efficiency that comes from a willingness to do duty cheerfully

When the squadron returned to the United States, the desertions became alarmingly large, and as there was no improvement in this particular as time went on the Depart ment recently appointed a board of officers to investigate the trouble and report sug-gestions as to how it might be remedied. Little information as to what the board learned and what its conclusions were is obtainable at the Department, where the most that is said about it is that many to most that is said about it is that many of the new men recruited from the interior of the country, who knew nothing of seagoing ways, were not satisfied with life on shipboard and took French leave to escape serving the full term of their enlistments. More recently the Department has made more inquiries into the reports that the dissatisfaction in the North Atlantic squad-ron was general. When the General Board ron was general. When the General Board of the navy was in session in Washington in October, Admiral Higginson was summoned here and consulted about the situation of his command and the means of remedying it. It was in consequence of the discussion of the matter by the General Board that the decisions to make Christmas week a holiday for the fleet and to devote one day in every seven to recreadevote one day in every seven to recreation were reached.

It has been customary in the navy to give the seamen one or two days' liberty every week when vessels are in port or engaged in work that would permit them to make to port frequently. This practo make to port frequently. This practice was practically discontinued by Admiral Higginson, however, during the presence of the squadron on the New England coast last summer. During the week between the ending of the naval search problem and the beginning of the joint army and navy war game, officers and mental to the same of t were forbidden to go ashore, although nothing was done by the ships in that period. This was one of the things that caused disatisfaction, but there were othcaused disanstaction, but there were others, it is reported, that gave greater reason for discontent. The Navy Department is concerned over the situation, but hopes that there will be a change for the better when the fleet manoeuvres begin in the West Lodice.

INSURANCE MERGER CHECKED. THE DEPRESSION IN GERMANY. Prudential May Be Enjoined From Buying Control of Fidelity Trust Company.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 1 .- Vice-Chancellor Stephenson at Paterson to-day granted a rule returnable Nov. 10, to show causwhy an injunction should not issue to restrain the Prudential Insurance Company from the proposed purchase of a majority of the Fidelity Trust Company's stock which practically meant the merging of the two companies.

The application was made on behalf of John Illingworth and John Rowbotham, under its charter to acquire the Fidelity stock in the manner proposed, as it is corporation chartered for the benefit of widows and orphans. They further stated report to the State Department from Berlin. that the Fidelity Trust Company cannot legally enter into such a scheme, as it has not been a dividend-paying institution for five years.

The order restrains the action of the directors which was to be taken at a meet-

TEACHERS COLLEGE REPORT. A Total Student Enrollment for the Year

Dean James Earl Russell of Teachers College, Columbia University, has submitted his annual report to President Butler. The total student enrollment for the year was 2.451, of which 709 persons were students in the college, 900 were exension students and 842 were pupils in the Horace Mann and Speyer experimental schools. These numbers are an increase over last year of 20 per cent, in college students: 32.6 per cent, in extension students students; 32.6 per cent. In extension students and 20 per cent. In school pupils.

Dean Russell says that Teachers' College would welcome any plan whereby a high-school graduate could secure two years of liberal training in Columbia College or Barnard College without being required to conform to the present regulations for the degree of bachelor of arts.

The Speyer experimental school, made possible through a gift of $100,000 from Mr. and Mrs. James Speyer, will be completed by January.

SCHOOL OF ARCHITECTURE 21. Exhibition to Be Given to Celebrate Its Coming of Age-Banquet to Prof. Ware.

An exhibition to celebrate the "coming of age" of the Columbia University School of Architecture and in honor of Prof. William R. Ware is to be held all this week at the galleries of the American Fine Arts Society, 215 West Fifty-seventh street, reticent in regard to the state of things | The whole of the South Gallery will be devoted to undergraduate work and the alumni will exhibit in the Vanderbilt Gal-be given to-morrow night. It will also celebrate the founding of the American Fine Arts Society by Prof. Ware twenty-one years ago.

An interesting fact in connection with this celebration is that on the twenty-first anniversary of its foundation the Columbia School of Architecture becomes an inde-pendent body, under its own faculty and dean, breaking away from the control of the Faculty of Applied Science.

PENSIONS FOR GLD SLAVES Negro Organization to Push the Movement Before Negroes.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 1.—The Brothers and Sisters of Honor of the World, a negro association, are in session near Vicksburg. The object of the organization is to have the former slaves of the South unite and after thorough organization appeal to Congress to have ex-slaves put on the pension rolls.

Another feature of the organization is to from a willingness to do duty cheeriumy and uncomplainingly.

The trouble, it is said, began when the squadron was in the West Indies last winter. Privileges such as Jack Tar has been in the habit of getting were curtailed down there, habit of getting were curtailed down there, according to report, and the hardest kind of work was not compensated for by any to work was not compensate to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former slaves who are unable to take care of the old former The project, however, has received very little encouragement. Many negroes in this region have been fleeced by projects to secure pensions for them.

CONSUL-GENERAL MASON SAYS IT HAS CONTINUED . SINCE 1900.

But With Varying and Suddenly Fluctuating Conditions-The Cause Is the Enormous Transfer of Productive Labor From Agriculture to Industries.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.- "The period of industrial reaction and financial depression in Germany, which began during the summer of 1900 has continued, with varying and often suddenly fluctuating aditions, throughout 1901 and down to the date of the present report," says United States Counsul-General Mason, in a He adds: "It is not too much to say that the steady increase in export from year to year, and especially the strong and sustained demand for German manufactures in the market of the United States now form the brigh est spot on the commercial horizon of the Fatherland."

In respect to the origin of merchandise Imported into this country last year, the United States again heads the list with a total, according to German statistics, of $248,019,800, or 18.2 per cent. of the entire bulk of imports, as against $242,950,400, or 16.9 per cent. in 1900, while German exports to our country reached a total valuation of $91,820,000, leaving the formidable balance of $56,189,800 in favor of the United States in statistics, the excess of German imports om, over exports to, the United States i enormous and steadily growing, the adverse balance having increased from $138,301,800 in 1900 to $156,189,800 in 1901. As a test of the degree to which the pres ent industrial situation in Germany, the pending tariff legislation, and the influence of the M-at Inspection law and other legislation have collectively exerted upon the importation of raw materials and food prod-ucts from the United States, Consul Mason

It is noticeable that there was a heavy increase in wheat imports and the important falling off in corn, due mainly to its high price in America, which permitted the corn of Eussia, Roumania, Hungary, Argentine Republic and Servia to compete, although there was a decline in the total import of corn from 891,451 tons during the first six months of 1901 to 592,087 tons during the same period in 1902.

Cotton, lumber, petroleum and tobacco imports from our country show a steady, normal increase; even meats, in spite of all restrictions, rather more than held their own. Copper shows a satisfactory increase, while the import of pig iron dropped to a bagateile of 309 tons, and was replaced by an expert of 7,465 tons of German pig iron to the United States.

into Cormany, which reached its climax in 1900, has since then steadily declined, the aggregate imports in all classes, viz., sewing machines, agricultural implements, machine tools, pumps and other machinery vaving been valued at $2,570,400 in 1898; 1,165,000 in 1899, $7,508,400 in 1900, and $4,769,500 in 1901.

The machine tools imported from America wo and three years ago have been employed of make Germany, a provider. wo and three years ago have been employed o make Germany a producer of machiner of export at prices with which the American makers, rushed and driven as they are be lemands at home, find it difficult to complete.

Speaking of the underlying causes of he present depression he says the present depression he says.

The enormous transfer of productive labor from agriculture to industries changed the whole economic balance of the empire and the result was a vast overproduction of many kinds of merchandise, but an under production of food materials. While the population of the charlest had increased 36 per cent kinds of merchandise, but an under production of food materials. While the population of the fatheriand had increased 36 per cent, during the twenty-eight years from 1872 to 1800, coal production had increased 200 per cent, pig iron production by nearly 330 per cent, shipping by 500 per cent, raij-way earnings, 400 per cent, and exports, although rapidly developing, had increased only 100 per cent. Another element in the problem which must be taken into account is the fact that he population of Germany is increasing at the rate of 800,000 a year. There is a steady, rapid growth in the number of persons to be sheltered, employed, clothed and fed. Certain food materials, especially meats, have recently grown abnormally scarce and dear.

commerce it is doubtful if New York has taken | measure of safety possible in a modern strucas big a stride forward in any one method and manner of living.

Even in the memory of the young men of the city the limit of luxury in hotel life was that behind the gloomy brown walls of the famous old Metropolitan. that time have gone the way of the Metropolitan and are now forgotten. In their places have arisen stately structures, the furnishings and architecture of which mark as clearly as anything the progress which has been made, not only in the out and out hotel, but in the apartment house. The apartment house of fifteen years ago is a depressing relic of a period in building and furnishing skill which New York is rapidly forgetting. Its very large extent by that delightful combination of hotel and apartment life, the apartment hotel. One might search a long way and not find a better illustration of this metamorphosis than that furnished by the beautiful new Hotel Bellechire at Broadway and 77th street, which will be opened on Nov. 15

The Belleclaire fills a demand that New York has felt for some time. It is the most complete apartment hotel in the world; the features of each, down to the smallest detail, are there. The suites range from one to six rooms with bath, and in each is constructed under the will be a comparison with any in the city without suffering.
